Duty of Care
Bullying Prevention Series Roles and Responsibilities for Supervisors & Managers
00:15 NARRATOR: Our workplace today is a complex web of interactions and reactions. We spend many hours in environments where things move at a rapid pace. Successful working relationships, like personal relationships, require hard work, commitment, and sound methods of communication.
00:35 UNKNOWN: As a supervisor or manager, you have a legal duty to monitor and control occupational health and safety issues in the workplace. Most of you will be aware of the obvious hazards that may exist in your workplace as well as the well-known policy of hazard identification, analysis, and risk control. But there are many other, not-so-obvious, risks to health and safety in the workplace that may not only affect and injure people in a physical sense but also psychologically.
01:00 Workplace Bullying Your Legal Duty of Care
NARRATOR: Workplace bullying is such a risk, and as a supervisor or manager, it is your legal responsibility to ensure that everyone understands that bullying behavior will not be tolerated.
01:20 NARRATOR: Be under no misapprehension, workplace bullying is an enormous occupational health and safety problem, and the cost to business generally runs into billions of dollars each year. Ask an employer whether bullying exists in their workplace, and this is what they will probably say.
01:40 UNKNOWN: No, no. We don't have that problem here.

My Millennial Life

because I needed that money for sure, oh I also have a news that I've been accepted to third round which is great like yeah! Umm... for sports and events marketing, so that will be cool, I knew I had everything I needed to get in there, but it's a big relief, because it's kind of like oh, my god like if I don't get accepted, I am like a huge loser. I decided to go back to college, because really yes, I learnt how to write papers and I can analyze texts and I can bring together lots of theories and stuff. But, I need real life skills to get a good job. I need qualifications that I just didn't get in the university. I literally haven't done maths since high school. The first class was kind of rough because my professor said that we're gonna evaluate each other's work. I'm worried at this point, and I feel a little bit like the professor should be doing more. He told us to Google stuff today in class, which okay, you should always Google stuff but like you're my professor, tell me how to do it yourself. That's what I'm paying for. Like, I might as well take the workbook, withdraw from class, get the money back and teach myself, because that's what I'm gonna do anyway. But I'm not gonna do that, I will see it through. I'm not a quitter. Oh, this is my, that's my bank calling me about my credit card. Oh...

Lejátszási listára teheti

A klip a már meglévő lejátszási listájára kerül, ahová egész filmek is kerülhetnek. Vagy új listát is kialakíthat:

The screenshot shows a web browser window at <https://search.alexanderstreet.com/cite>. The page displays a playlist titled "Your list (2 items)" with a "clear all and return" link. A modal window titled "Add to / create playlist" is open, offering two options: "Add to an existing playlist" (with a dropdown menu showing "Alexander Street's B") and "Create a new playlist" (with a text input field containing "Millennial Playlist"). A blue arrow points to the "Add to an existing playlist" option. The modal also includes a checkbox for "Clear your Selected Items after adding to playlist" which is checked.
